

POISON MURDER MYSTERY

Following the arraignment of Mrs. Rita Richmond in Cambridge today on a charge of murdering Edward McGeehan, a new element of mystery entered the case when the stomach of the slain found dead in Mrs. Richmond's hotel was sent to Professor Whitney, the poison expert of Harvard Medical School.

The police are reluctant about this view of the mystery, but it is known that the Medical Examiner James ordered the view to be sent to Professor Whitney to determine not only the length of time McGeehan had been dead, but also whether it was any trace of poison in the stomach and intestines.

McGeehan's friends say he had money with him. No traces of money were found on his body. The police are working on the theory that the unfortunate man was robbed, and that robbery was a motive for McGeehan's death.

Mrs. Richmond, proprietress of the Hotel Phoenix at No. 132 Cambridge street, East Cambridge, was formally charged in the Cambridge District Court today with the murder of McGeehan.

When Clerk of Courts William E. Forbes read the murder charge Mrs. Richmond said: "I can't bear what you say."

LYNN BEATH-SUSPECT DEFENDED BY UNCLE

Leaving out the question of relationship and natural sympathy for the nephew, Miss Beath, a merchant of South Boston, says it is preposterous to think that Yabou Droughe, or Frank Jones, would do any damage to the life of another man, much less one with whom he had been very friendly for many months.

Mr. Beath, who is a well-known figure in the corner of Broadway and High street, has been in the city since the tragedy. He says he has not seen his nephew since that time.

Frank was here on a visit, and he said he saw him on the night of the explosion. He said he saw him on the night of the explosion.

Heroes Save Lives When Workers Are Overcome in Cambridge Pit—Leaking Sewer Gas Blows Up.

Five workmen on the Kendall square entrance to the new Cambridge subway were overcome by an explosion of sewer gas as they were going down a ladder to the bottom of a thirty-foot hole at 7:30 today. Two others were overcome in trying to aid them.

The men were strung along, halfway down the long ladder, when the sewer gas came boiling through the air.

Two men, who were on the ladder, were overcome by the gas. They were rescued by the other men.

THREE MYSTERIOUS
TRAGEDIES IN LIFE
OF MRS. RICHMOND

Richly dressed woman, said to be one Mrs. C. S. Newcomb, found dead in room at the Richmond hotel two weeks ago, was sus-

Unknown man died under almost similar circumstances at the Hotel Florence, Cambridge, a year ago.

Stewart McTavish found murdered in Hotel Florence.

In 1906 Mrs. Richmond inherited a fortune of $40,000, and it was following a celebration at her home that she and her husband became mixed up in a family dispute which wound up in the courts, during the hearing of which the marriage was annulled.

It also came out at this hearing that Richmond, who gave his occupation as a sculptor, had two wives, his first being a actress at that time living in New York.

Richmond is now serving a term in the house of correction.

McTavish was an old time friend of Mrs. Richmond and had boarded with her a year ago. It is not known just when he went to the house, although it is supposed he arrived Monday.

While at the station house Mrs. Richmond was subjected to the most searching examination that could be set by the police. Adept in the art of extracting information through the aid of the third degree, the officers questioned her again and again in regard to every feature of the crime.

She remained cool throughout the bitter

Although she slept in a chair in the kitchen adjoining that room, she told the inspectors that she had heard no shot and until told of the murder knew of Mrs. Richmond is nearly six feet in height and is very muscular. She weighs over 250 pounds. She was at one time nurse at the Massachusetts General Hospital.

TODAY'S STOCK MARKETS: FINANCIAL NEWS
WALL ST. NEWS ROCK ISLAND EARLY BOSTON
FOR INVESTORS AT TOP PRICE PRICES HIGHEST

STATE STREET, July 26.—(Nono)—Early stock market prices were the highest. The new buy orders were filled and then prices fell. The market was very active, however, and temper is bullish on holding stocks. There was no news and many buyers were absent from the street on account of the short day. Private advices from New York list that the market was liquidating part of its holdings of Southern Pacific and buying into New York Central.

North Butte was the active feature. It rose and fell to 55 on early buying; subsequently it reached to 50%, but the closing was firm. Amalgamated was quiet and closed at 100. The market generally rose to 17% on profit taking. It is expected that the market will close at 15. Street common sold both above and below.
